About the Theatre . . .

This theatre was built nearly forty years ago. It had a tremendous balcony and no fire exits. The heavy plaster ornaments popular in 1903 were more or less white until Brother Schroen, S.J. covered them in 1915 with decorative inscriptions. Unfortunately, he depended very heavily for his effects on a goldleaf background which soon turned a sinister and unhealthy green. By 1941 the seats were rickety, the rugs were ragged and the velour drapes—almost as faded as the Jesuit who in his younger days had proudly placed them there. It was small wonder, then, that in the end the President of the Mimes and Mummers put down his foot.

Fortunately for all of us, the Alumni had recently given their Alma Mater some Centenary gifts for just such a worthy purpose, so a number of interesting heads were put together and now we think we have something. The triple stage, as far as we know, is quite original and the lighting is unusually good. The bombproof exits are as up-to-date as tomorrow's raid and when we finish the lobby it should be attractive and different.

How grateful we are to the Alumni must appear from the way we brag about their gift.

Rev. Robert I. Gannon, S.J.
